

I am not sure what good it will do to check only the walk on passengers and spot check a few cars. As far as checking cars and passengers, if this is anything like the airports, you might as well just shut the terminals down and close the feery service. a 1 to 2 hour wait will just not work for most people. it is bad enough dealing with the personal that work there now, let alone more state or federal workers. If security needs to be stepped up please use a independent company and get a way from the lazy state workers.
